

Alexandre C. Dimian is retired Professor from the University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands, where he was active between 1993 and 2008. Today he is chief engineer at Yellowdiesel B.V. a R&D company in the field of biofuels. He was lecturer at Politechnica of Bucharest, as well consultant in France for 12 years. His field of expertise is Chemical Engineering with emphasize on process design and computer simulation. He has more than 100 refereed scientific articles, five patents and five books, from which two recently published by Elsevier and Wiley dealing with integrated computer-aided chemical process design. ...