

Ovidiu Vaduvescu - international astronomer of Romanian origin. MSc in Mathematics and Computer Sciences (1986-1991: Univ of Craiova), Romanian astronomer (1991-1997: The Astronomical Institute Bucharest), PhD in Mathematics & Astronomy (Babes-Bolyai Univ Cluj Napoca, part-time). Immigrated to Canada (1997) and PhD in Astrophysics (2000-2005: York University, Toronto), Postdoc in South Africa (2006: Kwazulu-Natal University in Durban), postdoc and professor in Chile (Institute of Astronomy, Univ Catolica del Norte in Antofagasta). Presently astronomer in La Palma, Canary (since 2009: Isaac Newton Group observatory - UK, NL, SP). Former part-time professor of astronomy in Romania (high school level), Canada (college and university) and Chile (university) and computer programmer in Canada (1997-2000). Science interests: star forming galaxies, near Earth asteroids, astronomical observatories, education & public outreach, astronomy software