

Dr. Tudor Vlad is the Associate Director of the James M. Cox Jr. Center for International Mass Communication Training and Research at the University of Georgia. While being in the Cox Center, Dr. Vlad conducted workshops in Romania, Belarus, Kenya, Republic of Moldova, the Philippines, Russia, Ukraine, Hungary, and the United States.

Since June 1998, Dr. Vlad has been a Director for Central Europe of the World Free Press Institute, California.

Since January 2008, Dr. Vlad has been a consultant to The New York Times.

Since January 2009, Dr. Vlad has been a consultant to the Russian Journalists'™ Union (RUJ).

Dr. Vlad is the author of four novels, two journalism books (The Interview. From Plato to Playboy and The Romanian Writers'™ Fascination with Film), and the co-editor of Copyright and Consequences. Central European and U.S. Perspectives.

Dr. Vlad has written on interview techniques, relationship between literature, journalism and movie, media challenges in emerging democracies, newspaper management after the fall of communism, and evaluation of media assistance programs. He also wrote more than 700 articles in Romanian and foreign newspapers.

Dr. Tudor Vlad is the Associate Director of the James M. Cox Jr. Center for International Mass Communication Training and Research at the University of Georgia. While being in the Cox Center, Dr. Vlad conducted workshops in Romania, Belarus, Kenya, Republic of Moldova, the Philippines, Russia, Ukraine, Hungary, and the United States.

Since June 1998, Dr. Vlad has been a Director for Central Europe of the World Free Press Institute, California.

Since January 2008, Dr. Vlad has been a consultant to The New York Times.

Since January 2009, Dr. Vlad has been a consultant to the Russian Journalists'™ Union (RUJ).

Dr. Vlad is the author of four novels, two journalism books (The Interview. From Plato to Playboy and The Romanian Writers'™ Fascination with Film), and the co-editor of Copyright and Consequences. Central European and U.S. Perspectives.

Dr. Vlad has written on interview techniques, relationship between literature, journalism and movie, media challenges in emerging democracies, newspaper management after the fall of communism, and evaluation of media assistance programs. He also wrote more than 700 articles in Romanian and foreign newspapers.